

REPUBLICANS WILL SWEETEN NEW YORK, BULKLEY DECLARES

Party Will Carry Ohio, Illinois,
Indiana, and Michigan, Says
Local Republican Leader.

That Hughes will carry New York State by a big majority and will also carry Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan is the prediction of Barry Bulkley, of this city, who has been out in the campaign, and has been making speeches in trip with Governor Whitman of New York.

This trip extended from the New York-Canadian border through to Buffalo, and thence to the Middle West. Mr. Bulkley said:

"I confidently believe that Mr. Hughes will carry the State of New York by a majority running anywhere from 70 to 100,000 votes and that he will come down to the Bronx with a strength more than amply sufficient to offset any majority the Democrats may expect to roll up."

He found that there was the greatest interest throughout New York State in the protective tariff, and that the farmers and the business men all through the State are infinitely more concerned in a discussion or forecast of what is going to happen after the war is over than they are in the 'kept us out of war' theory, which after all, among sensible people, is becoming rather trite. They realize that no foreign government has sought a quarrel with us since the European conflict opened, and that none of the powers would be silly enough to invite one now.

Is Popular Up State.

Governor Whitman is tremendously popular in the up-State counties where the Republicans must look for their majorities. He is loyal and enthusiastically supporting Mr. Hughes, and is proving himself to be a tower of strength as a campaigner. There is more curiosity, as a matter of fact, to hear him than any other speaker on the stump.

I found conditions in Illinois, Indiana, and Michigan somewhat similar to those prevailing in New York State. I have no hesitation in giving it as my conviction that Mr. Hughes will carry them all and that he will also be successful in Ohio.

Whitman Strongly Entrenched.

The Whitman administration in New York State is too strongly entrenched in public opinion to be affected by a few disgruntled soreheads in the Progressive party who are making a great deal of noise for Seabury, the Democratic candidate for governor. Whitman will know him under.

In all the States mentioned I found the leading Progressives fighting shoulder to shoulder with the Republican party for success in November. I found, too, the business men of the country to be for Mr. Hughes almost to a man, while organized labor are leaning toward the Adamson bill as a gold brick and as a substitution of force for arbitration.

Mr. Bulkley will leave Wednesday next for New York to fill speech-making engagements in New York City and nearby points. On October 23 he will regain Governor Whitman, with whom he will tour up to the date of the election.

HUGHES ODDS DROP OFF IN BALTIMORE

$1,500 Bet on Wilson Covered
With $2,000.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18.—Wilson money for betting is rapidly making its appearance in Baltimore. A bet was made at the chamber of commerce yesterday between two prominent grain dealers of $2,000 on Hughes to $1,500 on Wilson.

For many weeks offers to bet on Hughes have been made by the enthusiastic Republicans of this trade body. So confident have the Republican adherents been that offers of 2 to 1 were advanced some days ago, but without takers.

Yesterday one of the Wilson advocates became tired of this and he went about with the proposal to cover all bets of 2 to 1 offered. He soon found the odds had been reduced and that he was only after much "kidding" that he was able to place the bet at the odds obtained. It was thought the Republican would still bluff the Democrat by making the bet for large figures, but this was "called" and his $2,000 was quickly covered after it was found that Republicans would give no better odds.

FARMERS DISCUSS PRESENT HIGH PRICES

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 18.—That the European war has imposed new problems upon the farming population, is a fact that is to be taken up and fully discussed at the farmers' national congress, meeting here today for a four-day session. Already there has been agitation to the effect that the export of wheat to European countries should be prohibited to avert the possibility of a food shortage in the United States.

The problems of soil fertility and intensive agriculture will be given attention, and recommended as one method of overcoming the unbalanced situation created by the conflict abroad.

The convention will muster such names as those of Gifford Pinchot, Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, and United States Senator Hobart Smith of Georgia, Congressman Ralph W. Moss of Indiana to address the congress.

Memory Expert to Lecture at Y. M. C. A.

The demonstration of the memory expert, Joseph Althaus, who is to teach the system to Y. M. C. A. members, will be given in the assembly hall of the building tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Assisting him will be Bruno Lehmann, the thirteen-year-old boy who has been reported, taught himself to remember an almost incredible amount of information.

Cards of admission to the lecture may be obtained from the educational department of the association by application.

GREGORY DEFENDS WILSON'S POLICIES

Attorney General Addresses
Democratic Rally at Rockville—For Mexican Plan.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Oct. 18.—Attorney General Thomas Watt Gregory defended the foreign, and especially the Mexican, policies of President Wilson at a Democratic rally at Rockville yesterday.

Others speakers were Hugh A. McMullen, controller of the State treasury; David J. Lewis, candidate for the United States Senate, and H. Dorsey Etchison, candidate for Congress.

"I would not foolishly maintain," said Mr. Gregory, "that no mistakes have been made, for no one is gifted with prophecy, and after events have occurred even a foolish man can sometimes suggest wherein a wise man has erred. I do say, however, that amidst the wildest storm the world has known, our pilot has guided the ship of state with skill and wisdom, and accomplished those things for which the great mass of the American people stand."

"Add to this the fact that we are at peace with all the world; that millions of men are not marching across our country, killing and devastating, that our cities, towns and rural communities are not filled with widows and orphans and the maimed, blind and mutilated from a hundred battlefields; that famine does not hover over any section of our country; that pestilence does not threaten our population, and that we are the one great nation in the world in which millions of its citizens are not engaged in war and thousands daily filling unknown graves, while from twenty to fifty million dollars are spent each day in defraying the actual expenses of warfare."

In replying to Republican criticism that President Wilson is a man of words and not deeds, Mr. Gregory declared that so long as President Wilson presides over the destinies of this nation, so long will words and not deeds be resorted to in keeping peace with the nations until words have ceased to be effective and peace can no longer be honorably maintained.

In reference to the Mexican situation, Attorney General Gregory said that the United States wants no war with the Mexican people.

"It would be ignominious war, the war of the strong against the hopelessly weak, a war against a people striving blindly and vaguely for freedom, for land, for education, and for a place among the nations."

The meeting was called to order by Alexander G. Carlisle, chairman of the county Democratic State central committee, who introduced J. Dawson Williams, of Kensington, as presiding officer.

DISTRICT SOLDIERS ENGULFED IN MUD AT CAMP ON BORDER

Gen. Funston Makes Attempt to Rescue Troops by Laying Gravel and Stone.

CAMP WILSON, SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18.—General Funston today attempted to rescue the District militiamen, who have been marooned in their camp by a high tide of sticky mud which has a depth of fifteen inches in many places.

The relief party was composed of several motor truck companies which distributed 10,000 tons of gravel and stone along the company streets, which were once walkways. The entire regiment was turned out to scatter the gravel and construct paths.

Drill Field Just Mud.

The drill field was still a vast expanse of mud today and the men were given schooling in the mess halls instead of maneuvers. Last night's heavy downpour made the drill grounds look more like a quagmire than ever and also caused the ruin of much of the Washingtonians' clothing.

The term "White House Pets," to designate the District militiamen is rapidly falling into disuse. Early this morning a soldier from the Sixteenth Cavalry attempted to run the guard near the guard house, and upon being challenged by Private John C. Bishop, replied: "Shut your mouth, you White House Pet," after a stiff fight the cavalryman ran and Bishop gave chase.

The cavalryman who had on boots outdistanced his pursuer who had on sandals. Cook Charles Kershenbaum, of Company H, who was getting breakfast, captured the cavalryman and gave him a sound drubbing, and landed him in the guardhouse. Bishop severely lacerated his right hand when he struck the cavalryman's mouth. The cavalryman will be court-martialed.

Because of the fact that the regular guardhouse has been declared uninhabitable, because of the mud, the Third Battalion mess hall is used as a guardhouse, and is called the "bull pen" by the fourteen occupants.

In Charge of Guard House.

Lieut. George A. Monagan, assigned the task of searching for a place of property belonging to the companies, but which went astray somewhere between Rosslyn and Camp Wilson.

He has been given authority by Colonel Young to confiscate the property wherever he finds it and restore it to its rightful owner.

The First Regiment of Maryland Infantry stopped in San Antonio today on its way to Washington. All the Marylanders were provided with overcoats here, so they would not suffer with the cold when they reach the Northern climate.

Many of the District militiamen who did not have overcoats shivered and shook here today, the temperature having taken a most decided drop following the lone rainy spell.

May Put Stop to Sale Of Mexican Cash Here

The profitable industry of printing within the confines of the United States millions of dollars worth of paper money to be used by revolutionary factions in Mexico, as proof that they are amply financed, is likely to be stopped by the United States Government.

Preliminary steps to put an end to this wealth producing business have already been taken by the Department of Justice and Congress has before it the suggestions of Attorney General Gregory.

Enactment and enforcement of the proposed law may have the effect of seriously checking new revolutions across the Rio Grande should the Carranza government prove eventually that it can not control the dissident elements in Mexico.

Whether it will effectively prevent the issuance of paper money in bushel basket quantities, as was done in behalf of Francisco Villa and other revolutionary leaders, is doubtful as the revolutionists could take printing jobs across the Canadian border or they could journey to South America or even to Europe. In such an event American printing establishments would be the losers, and as past events have demonstrated an occasional profitable customer might be driven away from Texas.

Would Insure Neutrality.

Such a law, however, would more fully insure the neutrality of the United States and would in a way eliminate much of the plotting in San Antonio and other places on the Texas border aimed at the faction then in power in Mexico.

The proposed law reads: "An act making it a crime to mint or print or otherwise manufacture in the United States for any faction or body of insurgents within the United States any gold or silver or other coins or paper money intended to be issued and used as currency or any securities to be issued by such faction or body of insurgents in such other country; and further making it a crime to counterfeit within the United States any gold or silver or other coins or paper money intended to be used as currency or securities issued for or by such faction or body of insurgents."

The measure was introduced in the Senate, at the request of the Department of Justice, and with the approval of the State Department, by Senator Culberson, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, toward the close of the last session. It was in turn referred to the committee but no action was taken. Efforts will be made, however, at the December session to have the measure enacted.

One of Eighteen Plans.

This prospective law is but one of eighteen embracing recommendations by Attorney General Gregory governing the neutrality of this nation in its relations to the European nations at war and Mexico. The suggestions embrace a comprehensive program and their need has been demonstrated time and again.

Some of the additional legislation suggested by Mr. Gregory included: An act making it a crime wilfully to interfere with or prevent, or to attempt to interfere with or prevent, or to conspire to interfere with or prevent, the exportation to foreign countries of articles from the United States, by injury to or destruction of said articles, or of the buildings in which they are stored.

An act making it a crime to set fire to any vessel engaged in foreign commerce of the United States, or her cargo, to tamper with the vessel or cargo.

On Clearance Papers.

An act authorizing the President, or any official empowered by him, to withhold clearance papers to any vessel believed to be conveying fuel, arms, ammunition, men, supplies, dispatches, or information to a ship of a belligerent nation in violation of the obligations of the United States as a neutral nation.

An act preventing the sending out of the jurisdiction of this country during a war in which the United States is not engaged of a vessel to be employed by a belligerent nation.

An act giving collectors of customs broader authority in the examination of vessels about to clear from port.

An act making criminal the fraudulent use, or application, or counterfeiting of the seal of any executive department or Government commission. (This is occasioned by misuse of the State Department seal in passport frauds.)

An act amplifying the power of the Government to censor wireless messages and cables.

An act to prevent a breach of information or escape of the crew of an interned vessel of a warring nation.

On Military Secrets.

An act preventing the communication of military secrets of this nation.

An act making it a crime within the jurisdiction of the United States falsely to assume or pretend to be a diplomatic or consular agent of a foreign government, duly accredited to a United States with intent to defraud.

An act to prevent aliens other than diplomatic or consular officers or attaches from acting in the United States as the agent of a foreign government without prior notification and consent of this government.

An act authorizing the broader use of search warrants.

Another recommendation of the Attorney General aimed at conspirators against the peace and prosperity of the people of Mexico, mainly, and based, it is thought, upon experience of Federal agents on the border, would amend the neutrality clause of the Federal penal code, section 12, to read as follows:

Simple Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store. (This is all you will need.) Apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single alien and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and dinging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.—Adv.

TOO MUCH HURRY DOES IT

Are you a typical American—hurrying and worrying yourself into sickness, and then trying to hurry out—via the pill room?

Laxative and cathartic pills won't rid you of constipation. Your physician will tell you not to use them because, by weakening the normal processes of evacuation, they frequently make constipation chronic.

Nujol offers you a surer, more rational relief from bowel trouble.

It relieves constipation by softening the intestinal contents. It does not bring about the harmful stimulation and reaction which follow the use of the ordinary drug remedies.

All druggists carry Nujol which is manufactured only by the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). Avoid substitutes. Write today for booklet "The Rational Treatment of Constipation."
